

ning up to them with all the fierceness of a tyger, he seizes them fast either by the lappet of their coats or the tail of their gowns, growling and snarling all the while, as, if he would tear them to pieces in an instant. And so perhaps he would: but in this case, I always make the best of my way to prevent any mischief. If my little prisoner is then willing to own his fault, and promise amendment, I give Shocky a gentle tap with my wand, and he quits his hold immediately: but if the boy boy or girl should prove so refuse to do either, or perha-dent or sulky, and give me then he will be sure to shake purpose; nor can I make go, before he hath heart them and punished them to even though I should beat!

O rare old Shocky! what a art thou! and what a pity is not such another dog, or dred of them continually streets to seize upon and fir-men, and the naughty womthe naughty children!—My abroad is generally between or between five and seven i-I therefore caution such lit-misses who are naughty, an-continue so, to be sure to during the hours above-me-wife it is ten to one but meet with them.

Thus then you have he-
